You've categorized everything.

Transparency

At the Daily Standup, an animator shares that their productivity has slowed because they do not have the right computer to render their videos. As Scrum Master, you gather information about the issue and go to your technology partner to discuss how to resolve the problem together.

Inspection

At the Sprint Review, the team demonstrates their progress on a scene for the studio manager, who has invited the film’s special effects director to observe their processes and give feedback. The special effects director suggests three new ideas for the scene.

Adaptation

At the Sprint Retrospective, you ask the team to come up with one idea around their scene production processes to improve their efficiency.
